1. String the ring toggle loop (not the bar) to the middle of the wire and bring wire ends together.
2. String 1 bead on left wire. Pass right wire through bead in opposite direction. Pull bead to toggle. Repeat for a total section of 10 beads.
3. String 1 rondelle, 1 bead, for a total of 3 rondelles.
4. Repeat Steps 1 and 2, alternating sections of 10 beads and the 3 rondelle-2 bead sections, for desired length.
5. Add the bar part of the toggle: String both wires through 1 crimp tube. Pass both wires through the toggle bar loop and back through the crimp tube. Crimp the tube tightly using the crimp pliers.
6. Snip the wire tails close to the crimped tube. Cover crimp with a crimp cover.
7. Open the jump ring. String onto the loop on the ring part of the toggle. String a charm. Close jump ring.

Red and blue wires are same wire, shown in two colors to help illustrate how right and left wires crossover in each bead.

Vary the pattern with Swarovski rondelles or other accent beads.
